Storage Rack Benefits

Hi-Density

Racks are constructed of a solid non-marring material which will not break, bend, wear away, or fall off.

Because the racks are constructed of a solid piece of HDPE material there are no exposed steel edges to make contact with the weapons during storage and removal of the weapons.

Racks are fully adjustable and can accommodate multiple types of weapons.

Racks have the capability to lock each level of weapons with one lock without the use of doors or exposed metal.

Multiple rack sizes are used to maximize the storage area.

Widths 30" 36" 42" 48"

Depths 12" 15" 18"

Height 18" - 97"

No storage space is lost due to rack construction. A 42 inch rack offers 42 inches of storage. This offers more weapons stored per rack.

Multiple levels of weapons storage possible in one rack.

There are many benefits to the Hi-Density weapons racks. The space typically lost by competitor's cabinets because of the use of doors equals additional storage with a Hi-Density system. Offering a variety of rack sizes allows Hi-Density to customize systems for a better fit to the customer's available space and storage needs. This also allows for increased aisle space in and around the system. The systems can be locked without the use of doors, which speeds up deployment of weapons.

Additional security is achieved as weapons can be locked in the individual racks, and the total system can then be locked.

Weapons Cabinets

Racks built with stamped and formed steel with non-marring coatings and plastic guards that wear off, break & fall off leaving no protection for weapons.

Plastic guards and coatings are added only where the weapons are supported. Leaving exposed steel on the remainder on the support to contact the weapon during storage and removal.

Racks are fully adjustable and can accommodate multiple types of weapons.

All cabinets utilize doors.

Limited cabinet sizes are available.

Width 42.18"

Depth 16.83"

Height 18" - 84"

6 inches of storage space is lost to the doors, so a 42 inch wide cabinet offers only 36 inches of weapon storage.

Limited storage levels without buying additional cabinets and stacking them.
